$12,000 REWARD

AS FOLLOWS:

THE DOMINION BANK OFFER A REWARD OF $5,000 for information which will lead to the conviction of any person concerned as a principal in the theft of about $20,000 from the bank premises in Napanee, on the 27th or 28th August, 1897.

THEY ALSO OFFER A REWARD OF $5,000 for information enabling them to recover the money stolen, and in like proportion in case only part of such money is recovered.

THEY ALSO OFFER A REWARD OF $2,000 for the return of certain uncounter-signed $10 bills amounting in all to $10,000, stolen on the same occasion, and in like proportion in case only a part of such bills are recovered. The numbers of such bills are: No. 46,001 to 47,000, Series A, dated 2nd January, 1888.

Apply to head office of the Bank at Toronto, to either the General Manager or Inspector.

Dated, Toronto, 21st October, 1897.

THE SILVER DUST WASHING POWDER.

Is the most recent scientific discovery in washing compounds. Its composition and manufacture is as clean as any food product and will not injure anything and contains nothing but what makes things clean. Particularly adapted for washing dairy utensils and kitchen work.

Trainmen and engineers use it exclusively all over Canada and the United States, to wash their hands and clothes.

The Study of E Is The FIR

Towards solving the great money-saving and this store paves the way for it.

The goods and prices are here to be considered—the more we are studied the more business we will do, based on the powerful principle upon which the foundation of our business is built.

Price fairness to all—indifferent service we hope to deserve and maintain the support of all our interests.

Ladies' Jackets.

We have just bought thirty only Ladies' Frieze Jackets, in five different shades, regular $7 goods. We will clear the lot at $5.

Men's Fleece-lined Underwear.

We have placed in stock this week a very extra value in Men's Fleece-lined Shirts and Drawers. You will pay $1 in other stores, but our price is only 75c. per garment.

Ladies' Astracan and Bokharian Jackets.

We have a special value in Ladies' Astracan Jackets. Very heavily-furred whole skins, and the best value ever offered at $25 per garment. The better qualities are equally good values.

Children's Grey Lamb Caps.

Grey Lamb Caps are selling very freely, even at this early date, which is proof positive of our value. Prices are $2, $2.40, and $3.

Ladies' and Children's Underwear.

We show a larger variety of Underwear than any store between Montreal and Toronto. Our sales are enormous. It would take too much space to describe our stock to you. Prices range from 12½c. per garment to $1.25.

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY.

To Correspondents.—Persons sending in items from the surrounding district must sign their names to correspondence as a sign of good faith, not for publication. Any correspondence received without the name attached will not be published.

CENTREVILLE.

Husking corn has been the general business for the past two weeks. The yield has been an abundant one.

Rain is much needed. The soil is very dry and hard and bush fires are raging in close proximity. Springs and wells are failing fast. The e has been very little fall ploughing done yet.

A. N. Lapum, is laid up with a sprained knee at present.

Gordon Storrs is learning the harness-making trade with T. A. Hudson.

J. Lynch, Croydon, is the assistant in the cheese factory here at present.

Joseph Percy has gone to the Klondike. H. Donnelly, and T. Shannon, are still threshing with J. Cavanaugh.

Visitors: Miss H. McGrath and Mr. J. Dewey, Croydon.

Better Than The Klondyke.

Mrs. E. Winkworth, Morrison Street, Niagara Falls, Ont., says: "I was attacked by kidney trouble about two years ago, and steadily grew worse until November last, when I became so low that I thought I woud live only a short time longer. The doctor he pronounced my case a complication of Bright's disease and dropsy, and said I could not get well. Dr. McDonald advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills as it was my only chance to get well. I did so and now can truly say that I owe my life to following his advice for I am strong and well today. My life has been spared to three children and I think Doan's Pills are worth their weight in gold."

BATH.

To late for last issue.

Mr. Joseph Gardner has his dwelling and undertaking establishment at west end finished and has moved in.

Our enterprising stage proprietor Mr. Herbert Lewis, has duly prepared for the safe transportation of passengers during the coming winter by the addition of a new set of harness to his equipment.

The Methodist choir has been reorganized with Mr. Chas. Burley as basso profundo and Mr. Roddie Johnston, soprano soloist.

The Campbell property lately occupied by Mr. Jno. Gardner has been rented by Messrs. Mott and Shepherd who will use it as an auction room.

The Conway searchers gave our village a call on Sunday last.

Mr. C. Mil's, is buying cattle for Kingston and local markets and has purchased a fine team of Arabians for that purpose.

CAN'T YOU SLEEP?

Sleeplessness is one of the most frequent symptoms of heart and nerve trouble. It affects all class's and all ages. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills restore the nerves to healthy action and regulate the heart. Miles Boone, Fredericton, N. B., tells how they work. "I could never rest well, and often wake up with a start, and then sleep left me for the night. These pills gave me almost immediate relief, giving me healthful, refreshing sleep, and I am now strong and well."

NAPANEE MILLS.

On Saturday evening as Mr. John Jackson, tax collector, for Camden, was driving past Mrs. L. Lott's residence his horse became frightened at something and ran away. Mr. Jackson was thrown from the severe attack of measles. Miss Forsythe, of Wilton, is attending her.

Mrs. A. Booth returned from Toronto quite ill.

Mrs. A. Storms' condition is still critical. Lu'u Storms, who a few weeks ago, went to Philadelphia to the Training School for Nurses, is getting along well.

Frank McCabe, of Napanee, is spending a few days at the Queen's Hotel.

Earle Storms, of Hamilton, is home for a short time.

The Queen's hotel is being thoroughly repaired and furnished new.

Two cases of fever are reported in the village.

A CURE FOR CHILBLAINS.

EAR SIRS.—I used Haggard's Yellow Oil for chilblains this winter and found it most effectual. It relieves the irritation almost instantly, and a few applications resulted in a complete cure.

F. L'ESTRANGE,
Port Sydney, Ont.

SELBY.

Farmers are busy ploughing, but rain is needed very badly, as the land is almost too dry to work. Threshing is a thing of the past. Husking bees and parties are the order of the day.

Mr. Hayes spent Friday at Thomas Manion's.

Miss Louise Shaver is very ill with typhoid fever.

There was a large crowd at the temperance lecture in this p'ace on Monday night quite a number from Napanee and Newburgh were present.

Ira Anderson and family are moving in Mrs. Anderson's house on church street. Clinton Joyce, wife and daughter spent Sunday with his parents.

Miss Lizzie Joyce has gone to Deseronto on a visit.

WANTED—Industrious men of character.
THE LINSCOTT COMPANY,
Toronto.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
There's naught on earth that goes ahead
Of either meat, or fish, or bread,
And that so fully "tills the bill"
In various ways as does and will?

The egg of the Helpful Hen?

And there's nothing quite "so good to eat,"
That furnishes a rarer treat,
Or a richer feast, and more complete,
When savory, succulent and sweet,
And there's "but little appetite,"
There is no more enrapturing sight
Than a dish of good roast chicken?

Breathes there a woman in all the earth,
Who doesn't know the use and worth
Of the real value of dollars and cents,
Of the saving grace in family expense,
Of the joys and welcomes oft intense,
While patiently waiting in some suspense,
Egg fresh from the Helpful Hen?

Is there a housewife otherwise,
Who fully appreciates her prize,
When she's over and over, and over tries
To make her pudding, and sometimes pies,
And gets into trouble up to her eyes
From failing to use what's about the size
Of the egg of the Helpful Hen?

Breathes there a child in our broad land,
Who hasn't even an open hand,
And mouth a little mere open still,
With a welcome stomach ready to fill,
And never a thought of "a bitter pill,"
When eating with relish, "wish and will,"
Products of the Helpful Hen?

Breathes there anyone who never sings
In praise of Biddy and what she brings,
Alike to beggars, as well as kings,
Who cover her brood with outstretched

Mrs. Countryman—Oh, it isn't so bad. We are not all at troubled by visitors from town. —Boston Transcript.

CRIPPLE FROM RHEUMATISM.

Cured by a Few Doses of South American Rheumatic Cure—Miraculous but Fact.

Mrs. N. Ferris, wife of a well-known manufacturer of Highgate, Ont., says:—"For many years I was sorely afflicted with rheumatic pains in my ankles and at times was almost disabled. I tried everything, as I thought, and doctored for years without much benefit. Though I had lost confidence in medicines I was induced to use South American Rheumatic Cure. To my delight, the first dose gave me more relief than I had had in years, and two bottles have completely cured me." Sold past Mrs. L. Lott's residence his horse became frightened at something and ran away. Mr. Jackson was thrown from the rig with great violence and rendered unconscious by the force of the fall. He was carried into Mrs. Lott's house by Andrew Russell and Leonard Milburn and in a few hours was sufficiently recovered to permit of his being removed to his home. On recovering consciousness Mr. Jackson had no recollection of the accident. He is now almost completely recovered from the shock. The horse was uninjured, but the dashboard of the rig was sadly disfigured.

Wm. Thompson while working in the clay pit on Saturday had the misfortune to wrench his ankle, breaking one of the small bones.

Mrs. Clement is critically ill and no hopes are entertained of her recovery.

Jas. Somerville still remains in a low state of health.

Mr. F. G. B. Allen is convalescent.

Mrs. Vernon, of Toronto, is visiting her brother, Mr. F. G. B. Allan.

Miss McColl, of Chicago is visiting her brother Mr. Chas. McColl.

Mrs. Glover and Mrs. Wier, of Tweed, are visiting their parents Mr. and Mrs. Davy.

WILTON.

Mr. Metzler called a meeting of his patrons at Victoria school house Monday night to see what could be done towards paying off. It was found that the patrons would receive their September money all right so that the few days of October's loss will be very slight especially when compared with Mr. Metzler's loss and inconvenience. A vote was taken at the meeting to get the exp. of the people's feeling concerning the rebuilding of the factory and it was carried unanimously in favor of a new cheese factory. The people have had Mr. Metzler to deal with for so many years and have always found him to be a man of honor and sterling qualities so that no one can be found to take his place. At present the neighboring cheese factories have full vats, over 5,000 lbs. going to Odessa factory alone.

Miss Annie Forsythe is in Odessa, nursing Mrs. Freeburn, who is ill at Mrs. (Dr. Booth's), Miss Stella Neilson is home from Moreton; her school being closed on account of measles.

Mrs. Anthony Soeder died at her residence, near Thorps, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Norman O'Neil who lived near Victoria died Tuesday morning after several weeks illness. Although ill for so long and in a very weak state her death was sudden and unexpected. She leaves a husband and five children, the youngest being only a few months old. Mrs. O'Neil was Miss May Lemmon before her marriage, a daughter of Andrew Lemmon formerly of Wilton.

SEVERE ASTHMA RELIEVED.

DEAR SIRS.—We have used Norway Pine Syrup in our home a great deal. I have a little boy who has had asthma for five or six years (he is only 7 now), and during the severe attacks he would get great relief from using the syrup. For an ordinary cold it is about as good as any medicine I ever took.

ODESSA.

On Wednesday evening of last week a jolly load of Odessa's most talented, young people drove over to Hawley, to assist in a concert given in behalf of Mr. Evans. The good people of Hawley had cake and coffee prepared for those that came from a distance, which was very satisfying to the inmates after the long jaunt of twelve miles.

The program consisted of choirs, etc. etc. etc. by some of the Hawley young people, and several solos from the Odessa crowd. Special notice should be given to little Master Brisco, of Hawley, who recited "Reaching for the Jam" in a very pleasing manner. The entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The Methodists held their annual Sunday school concert in the town hall on Thursday evening of this week.

Our little town, in the near future, will boast of a new catholic church.

IN CHINA.

Europeans and Americans Have Twenty-Two Ports Open to Residence.

There are over 10,000 Europeans and Americans resident in China, says The Bulletin de la Societe de Geographic Commercial, Paris. "The English head the list with 4000; the Americans number 1325; Germans, 882; French, 875; Portuguese, 805; Spaniards, 461; Norwegians, 375; Russians, 116; Italians, 1087 etc. There are 669 Japanese. Twenty-two ports are open to foreign residence; that is to say, that Europeans are allowed to acquire conditional title to certain lands, on which they live, govern themselves, and have special privileges in judicial matters. The ports are Mengtz, Lung Chow, Pekhio, King Chow, Lappa, Canton, Kowloon, Swatow, Amoy, Fuchau, Winchow, Ningpo, Shanghai, Chinkiang, Wulin, Kinkiang, Hankow, Ichang, Chungking, Chefoo, Tientsin and Nuchwang. It is to be noted that Peking does not appear on this list, although the embassies and legations are established there. The Chinese who find themselves under foreign jurisdiction appear more than contented with the situation, because, although taxes are high, they are fixed. Two hundred thousand natives live in the European settlements of Shanghai. Besides the foreign residents of China, a large number live in ports that have been ceded to other nations. For instance, Hongkong comprises in its civil population 4195 Europeans and Americans. With the troops and sailors, this number is raised to 8545. Hongkong is the actual capital of foreign industry in the far east. More than 3000 vessels, with a tonnage of nearly 4,000,000, touch there annually. The same spirit which caused the development of Singapore, Colombo and Hongkong is to be found in the foreign settlements of the open ports of China."

The Diamond Jubilee of Telegraphy.

It is curious that this present year should record the diamond jubilee of telegraphy, and, at the same time, bring into prominent notice the possibilities of wireless telegraphy. On June 10, 1837, Cooke and Wheatstone's first patent for electric telegraphy was signed by William IV. The Pall Mall Gazette states that on July 4 of that year the first telegraph wire was laid. The circuit was between Euston and Camden Town Railway stations, under the permanent way of the London & Northwestern Railway, then named the London and Birmingham Railway Co. The line consisted of five wires, each wire laid in separate grooves cut out of long blocks of wood. There are many of these blocks in existence. A year or two ago one was dug up, and actually formed part of the circuit through which was flashed to all parts of the empire the message from Buckingham palace on Jubilee day; so that a portion of the first telegraph wire is dug up and serves as an aid to the royal message in the very year in which it is proposed to telegraph without wires.—Paris Edition of The New York Herald.

Hard on the Blood.

Dr. W. T. English of Pittsburgh believes that we eat too much acid food. Nature evidently intended that we should confine our use of acid fruits and vegetables to the summer months, but we now eat them during the whole year. The flavor of tomatoes depends upon the acid lycopersicum. It is estimated that since 1880 the production of this vegetable has multiplied ten times. In 1885 New York city consumed weekly 25 car loads of lemons. The daily demand now exceeds that amount. Oranges are used in about the same increased quality. Five years ago lemons, the most acid of all fruits, were in small demand. Today they are imported fresh and pickled in large numbers. Rhubarb plant, gooseberries, currants, cherries, plums, apples and pears are canned in vast amounts for winter use. Sweet apples are hardly salable in the markets. Acid flavored drinks are in demand at the flavored fountains. Acid conditions favor the development of micro organisms, promote fermentation and cause reduction of red blood corpuscles. A derangement of the heart and other organs often results.

This is to certify that J. My indigestion was better and my stomach was much stronger than before, and I found I had gained several pounds in flesh, where I was weak and thin in flesh before. I think I used nine or ten bottles in all, and I am now a healthy man, but still I do not want to be without the medicine in the house, and I procure one or two bottles every year, and I can truthfully recommend Sloan's Indian Tonic to others suffering from the same complaints.

JAMES REID, M.P.P., is again the choice of the Addington Conservatives. In Dr. Coutlee, the Liberals have a candidate who overtops him in stature, intelligence and ability, and it looks very much as if Mr. Reid will not warm a seat in the next Legislature.

It was not exactly right of Archbishop Cleary to associate a wedding with a funeral. If he had forbidden his flock from attending a Protestant christening it would be altogether different and there would have been no kick forthcoming from the Baptists.

ARCHBISHOP CLEARY, of Kingston, has issued a mandate forbidding Catholics from taking part in Protestant weddings and funerals. With due respect to the venerable prelate we hope it will be a long time before either he or any member of his flock are called upon to participate in the obsequies over our remains.

The Deseronto Tribune is out with an able article in which it advocates the establishment of an experimental farm in the Bay district of Eastern Ontario. The project is one which should receive the united support of the farmers and press of the district, and we feel if the matter is laid before the Ontario and Dominion Governments in the proper light it would lead to the establishment of a model farm in one of the places mentioned in the following article from The Tribune, which we quote in full:

"The Ontario Agricultural college and experimental farm at Guelph and the Dominion experimental farm at Ottawa have both been of incalculable value to the farming interests of Ontario. They have been instructive in stimulating to new and improved methods of cultivating the soil and breeding better classes of cattle. They have served as object lessons to thousands of farmers who have from year to year paid them visits of inspection. The most ordinary observer could not fail to glean a great deal of valuable information and receive a stimulus to the adoption of more modern and scientific methods of agriculture. They have especially served to create and foster in the breast of visiting farmers a pride in their calling which had hitherto been lacking. The money expended on both farms has been well spent and is begrimed by but very few people in this province. The new farm at Wanbagoon is also proving of great interest as its experiments and methods are especially adapted to the needs of new colonists in Algoma and northern Ontario. The Tribune has long been of the opinion that the Ontario government, or the Ontario government and Dominion government combined, might with great advantage establish another experimental farm in the Bay district of Eastern Ontario. Guelph and Ottawa are almost too far distant for frequent visits from the mass of the farmers in this part of the province. The nature of the country and special conditions arising therefrom call for peculiar methods of agriculture. For many obvious seasons the farmers of this part of Ontario stick most tenaciously to old manners and customs. Hence the greater need of a model farm which could be more generally and frequently visited by the farmers of the counties from Trenton to Brockville. The location of such a farm is a matter of secondary interest. A score of suitable places might be mentioned, Napanee, Tweed, Newburgh, Enterprise, Shannonville, Deseronto, Harrowsmith, etc., would be admirable points for such a farm. It need not be on such a large scale as those at Ottawa and Guelph; in fact it should be subsidiary to them. Members of their staff could be utilized in its supervision and management. Its direction would thus not involve a very heavy expenditure. To secure this boon for this part of Ontario only requires united effort on the part of the farming interests of the counties concerned. Our parliamentary representatives would, no doubt, unite in pressing upon the Ontario and Dominion governments the necessity of such a farm. Presidents of farmers' institutes and agricultural societies should especially cooperate and at an early day, by deputation or otherwise, wait upon the governments so that appropriations for the purpose might be placed in the estimates of the two legislatures. It is but seldom that the farmers or these counties ask a favor from government; surely this will not be denied.

The Time for Action and Great Care.

Paine's Celery Compound Should Be Used This Month.

Our changeable Autumn weather brings fear to the hearts of thousands of rheumatic sufferers who are unable to go to warmer climates. The present month with its wet, cold weather and chilling north east winds will, without doubt, increase the agonies of those who are afflicted with acute, chronic, inflammatory and sciatic rheumatism. The uric acid in the system, which the kidneys have not removed, is poisoning the blood, causing stiff and swollen joints, twisted legs, arms, fingers, and contracted cords. When it reaches the heart it generally proves fatal.

Rheumatic sufferers, why remain in agony and peril? There is a sure cure and a new life for all if the proper agency is made use of. The true agency, Paine's Celery Compound, has triumphantly met hundreds of cases far more subtle and dangerous than yours; it will surely meet your troubles. It is for you to determine this day whether you shall be free from suffering and take on a new life, or remain in a condition of helplessness and torture that may drag you to the grave at any time.

Bear in mind that Paine's Celery Compound cures all forms of rheumatism, and does the work so well that the disease never returns. Mrs. M. J. Vince, of Barrie, Ont., says:

"I am happy to say that I have taken Paine's Celery Compound with great results. I had sciatica so badly that I could not turn in bed or walk without help; and for a period of three weeks was helplessly laid up and suffered pain that at times was unbearable."

"I tried many medicines, but all in vain. I was afterwards recommended to try Paine's Celery Compound. I used six bottles, and am entirely cured and enjoy good health. I take great pleasure in recommending the valuable medicine that cured me."

A KLONDYKE ROMANCE.

Where Gold is at a Discount Even in Affairs of the Heart.

Lady Claire Klondyke, the golden-haired daughter of the first Duke of Dawson, stood within the grand old oak-hall of her father's palace, overlooking the frozen river and the snow-capped hills. She was clothed heavily in rich and elegant furs, for the winter had been long and cold and the end was not yet.

She shivered as the seneschal announced the arrival of the Count of St. Michael. Full well she knew the intent of the Count's visit, and she steeled herself for the encounter which she knew must follow quick upon their meeting.

Seeing the fair being standing by the wide fireplace of the drawing-room, looking more lovely than he had ever seen her, he approached her side in a whirl of emotion.

"At last!" he ejaculated in suppressed tones.

"Why?" she inquired in a tone of voice which made the Klondyke winter seem like a tropic dream.

"O sweet Claire!" he murmured, "so long have I yearned for this moment. Day unto day uttered speech and night unto night sheweth knowledge, but all days were dumb to me and all nights

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, OCT. 29th 1897.

OUR Lady of the Snows has emigrated.

WE are having a nice summer this fall.

WHITNEY'S meeting at Tweed was a trifle on the hog.

Push the experimental farm project along: it's a good thing.

KNAPP'S roller boat would be a great success in foggy weather on the Napanee river.

FROM reports to hand we are forced to the conclusion that the country requires rain.

EVEN bridesmaids have troubles of their own. But as the Archbishop would say, "it's not our funeral."

BOWEN E. AYLESWORTH's prospects are brightening every day. We feel safe in saying he will represent Lennox in the Local Legislature after the next election.

THE terrible railway wreck on the New York Central, whereby twenty human beings were ushered into eternity without a moment's warning is well calculated to leave a lasting impression on the average mind. It is impossible to say how soon the catastrophe may be duplicated nor who will be the victims. When such an accident occurs on a main line the necessity for careful supervision of

THERE is nothing too small to escape the attention of the wideawake newspaper man. We read that Mrs. Langtry's heart (?) was touched by the intelligence that her husband had died in a madhouse. It would take a very powerful microscope to locate that part of the "Lily's anatomy."

JOSEPH L. HAYCOCK, M.P.P., is still in the ring. He was nominated on Saturday as the standard bearer of the Independent Electors of Frontenac to contest the riding for the Local Legislature. "Joe" is a man of marked individuality and versatility and is equally at home at a logging bee, a base ball match or a political gathering. In his address at the nomination meeting on Saturday Mr. Haycock found much to praise in the way the affairs of the Province had been administered. Regarding colonization roads, he had gone over considerable of the road and found that general satisfaction was given in this respect. He voted with the Government on the matter because he thought the money was being judiciously spent. He also adverted to the Engledean grant and upheld the action of the government. The opposition had made howl over it, but he had voted for the agreement giving Engledean and Wood the territory for prospecting because the development of that mineral country would be a good thing. When men of capital and enterprise came forward in such a way they should be encouraged. While he did not agree with the government that there was a surplus of $4,000,000, he figured out that the government had a surplus of over $1,000,000. Mr. Haycock is honest and sensible enough to give the government praise where it is due. He differs very materially from the opposition in this respect. The policy of the opposition as enunciated by Mr. Whitney and his lieutenants is a policy of denunciation. They can see nothing good in the acts of their opponents and are so sweeping in their condemnation that their alleged arraignments fall on barren ground. The jaundiced addresses and idle boasting of Mr. Whitney and his lieutenants are of the kind that create amusement but do not carry conviction.

The rolling of thunder, like that of a distant cannonade, may be largely due to special reflections and refractions of sound. Again, the greater velocity of the air at considerable altitudes above the ground distorts the sound wave and shortens the limit of audibility to the leeward, while increasing it to the windward.

200 miles distant, thunder is rarely audible ten miles. The thunder from very distant storms, therefore, seldom reaches the ear. Hence, if every thunderstorm has to be recorded, a large number of stations will be needed; probably one for every twenty-five square miles would not be too many. A few stations would suffice, at least for the night time, for the reporting of the direction and movement of every case of distant lightning.

The reason of the great uncertainty in the audibility of thunder is not hard to understand. It depends not merely on the initial intensity of the crash, but quite as much on the surroundings of the observer, even as in the quiet country one will observe feeble sounds that escape the ear in a noisy city. Perhaps the most curious and important condition of audibility is that the thunder-wave of sound shall not be refracted or reflected by the layers of warm and cold air between the observer and the lightning or by the layers of wind, swift above and slow below, so as to entirely pass over or around the observer. Sound, in its wave-like progress, obliquely through layers of air of different densities, is subject to refraction, and this refraction may occur at any time and place. Thus, observers at the topmast of a ship frequently hear fog whistles that are inaudible at sea level; those on hilltops hear thunder that cannot be heard in the valley; those in front of an obstacle hear sounds inaudible to those behind it.

The rolling of thunder, like that of a distant cannonade, may be largely due to special reflections and refractions of sound. Again, the greater velocity of the air at considerable altitudes above the ground distorts the sound wave and shortens the limit of audibility to the leeward, while increasing it to the windward.

Good for the Cow.

The other day a bicyclist rider found a rare chance for sport. He was near the suburbs of Worcester. A farm wagon appeared, with a cow trailing behind, patiently submitting herself to be led by a rope from the front seat. The bicyclist rode up to the cow and began a series of tactics to annoy her. He punched her in the ribs, yelled in her ears and dodged around her legs. Occasionally he fell back, and taking hold of her tail, attempted to make her tow his bicycle. The cow objected and kicked vigorously. This only annoyed the rider, and he directed his attention to an annoyance that would induce her to continue kicking, meanwhile keeping out of reach of her heels. Finally the animal stopped kicking and appeared to become indifferent. Some spectators on a passing street car observed, however, that she had turned her head so as to keep an eye on her persecutor. It took her a few minutes to get the range, and meanwhile the bicyclist girded gird and was reckless, encouraged by her quiet behavior. Suddenly the animal darted forward, so as to get a slack in the rope, stopped short and let both heels fly. Her aim was sure this time, and the bicycle went out from under the bicyclist's feet. The street car spectators raised a shout, the motorman rang a chime with his gong, and the farmer and his boy whipped up the horse. The impulsive cow only wiggled her ears and gave an imaginary fly on her side, a triumphant slap with her tail. The wheel was so twisted that the rider had to walk home as helplessly as the cow was being led. He will not sue the owner of the cow.—Worcester (Mass.) Gazette.

Modern Methods.

A singular instance of the way in which large corporations are now able to economize by keeping within themselves the profits which formerly went to outside industries is seen in the management of an extensive English railroad. There is hardly a thing needed on the line, from a locomotive to a printed label, that is made for it by people not belonging to the company. It makes its own artificial legs. When an employee is so unfortunate as to lose a limb a wooden leg or arm, as the case may be, one is sent from the main carpenter's shop. The leg-making department employs a couple of expert instrument makers, who are kept at work constantly to supply the demand. One man is engaged solely in etching fancy designs upon the plate of ground glass used in the first-class compartments and saloons. A photographer-in-ordinary is always ready for a summons. If a bridge shows signs of decay or an embankment is likely to slip, a despatch is sent to the photographer, who forthwith takes a picture of the "accident," which is forwarded to the engineer in chief, who is thus often saved the necessity of making a personal visit.

A Bride's Rich Costume.

For a bride has been most successfully designed a ball gown of rose hooded mink velvet. The entire bodice is richly embroidered with mother-of-pearl nailheads. The sleeves are of pink guaze, spangled in the same way and lined with rose satin. This satin is used throughout as a lining and the skirt is entirely separate from the foundation satin slip, and all the latest evening skirts are so arranged. They are narrower, the fullness being thrown well to the back, and as they are separate from the lining more trimming is required, and in numerous instances this takes the place of flounces and pleats at the sides.

Three guaze ruffles, covered with the nailheads, border the skirt and give the finishing touch.

Understand Your Own Style.

But few realize how long it takes to learn one's own style. It is a lesson that cannot be too quickly comprehended, and I am not alluding to style in clothes only, as those who read between the lines well know. However, here is not the place for a lecture, so I hasten to relate to you the very latest news collected from many sources, all reliable and worthy of serious contemplation, if you would be up to date.

The redingote, the princess and the cairnise models have, thus far, been received with so much favor that the much-worn, round-belted blouse bodice unto night sheweth knowledge, but an days were dumb to me and all nights black in ignorance while I have been waiting to come thus into your presence, and offer you—my heart, my hand, and my fortune."

Thus speaking he flung himself at her feet, the meanwhile ten large and soiled Indians from the headwaters of the river came forward, rolling into the beautiful reception room, ten barrels of pure, unadulterated gold dust, worth $19,35 an ounce at any mint in the land.

At first Lady Claire's fair face took on a kindly look, and there was in it almost a rosy flush of hope. She watched the barrels eagerly, for they looked so much like the barrels her father was wont to pack hams in ere he had come hither from Chicago so many years ago.

However, it was but a moment until she detected nothing in the barrels save gold dust, and she involuntarily and convulsively clutched at her bediamonded and gold stomacher, hanging now so loosely about her fair form.

The Count, still at her feet, took no notice for he had not spent the winter in Klondyke, and did not know how it was.

As she saw what the Count was lavishing upon her, she drew back and touched him with her foot as a token that he might rise.

"Take back your gold, Count," she said, waving her lily white hand for the Indians to withdraw as they had come—that is, accompanied by the barrels. "Take back your gold—I have no use for it here. It was kind of you to think of it, and I am sure I appreciate your courtesy; but Charlie McManagin has forty pounds of boiled gold which he says shall be all mine own if I accept him; and you must excuse me, Count—really you must."

Before the ice broke up in the river in July the Count began to understand Lady Claire's choice.—W. J. Lampton in New York Sun.

The August Sun Spot.

Mr. G. E. Chambers of the Northfield Observatory, Eastbourne, writes that on Aug. 9 he discovered a very fine sunspot measuring about 30,000 miles in diameter. He watched it up to the edge of the sun, and on the 15th it "turned the corner," so to speak, and probably might have been seen, if any one had looked for it, as a notch on the solar disk. By virtue of the sun's axial rotation it was due to reappear on the 29th, and Mr. Chambers had no difficulty in recognizing it. By now it is progressing steadily across the face of the disk, and should be a striking object. Many sunspots, if they have held, are apt to have an effect on the magnetic equilibrium of our planet, but the connection is not very clearly made out.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Peculiar Plant.

A plant grows in Assam, the botanical name of which is gymnosma sylvestre, and which has the peculiar property, when chewed, of temporarily neutralizing the sense of taste as regards sweet and bitter things, while sour and saline substances remain unaltered. The Hindus claim that the plant is an antidote to snake bite. However that may be, it is believed that the plant might be advantageously introduced in our pharmacopoeia as a means of disguising the bitterness of quinine and other disagreeable medicines.

ARE YOU RUPTURED?

Attention is called to the ad of J. Y. Egan in another column. Mr. Egan is the leading Hernia Specialist in Canada and those suffering from rupture should avail themselves of his visit to Napanee. He may be seen, and consulted free at the Paisley House, Friday, Saturday, November, 5 and 6. Read the following testimony from your own neighborhood:

DEAR SIR—The instrument you fitted on me during your visit to Picton succeeded beyond my most ardent expectations. As a hotel man I had to be on my feet most of the time, weighing about two hundred pounds and my rupture being of long standing and as my physician intimated "a really serious case" caused me much anxiety and suffering. Having tried all the trusses in the market and none would even hold me for one hour, I had about abandoned every hope. I wore your grand appliance continually with great comfort. It held me from first to last and never shifted its position as all others did. I am now as sound as ever and can indulge in the heaviest exercise with perfect safety. I would strongly advise all sufferers from rupture not to postpone their case but call on you at once and be rid of this dangerous affliction.

SING A SONG.

If you'll sing a song as you go along,
In the face of the real or the fancied wrong;

In spite of the doubt if you'll fight it out,
And show a heart that is brave and stout;
If you'll laugh at the jeers and refuse the tears,

That the world denies when the coward cries

You'll force the ever reluctant cheers
To give to the man who bravely tries;
And you'll win success with a little song—
If you sing the song as you go along!

If you'll sing a song as you plod along
You'll find that the busy, rushing throng
Will catch the strain of the glad refrain;
That the sun will follow the blinding rain;
That the clouds will fly from the blackened sky;

That the stars will come out by and bye
And you'll make new friends till hope descends

From where the plaid rainbow bends;
And all because of a little song—
If you'll sing the song as you plod along!

If you'll sing a song as you trudge along
You'll see that the singing will make you strong;

And the heavy load and the rugged road
And the sting and the stripe of the tortuous road

Will sour with the note that you set afire,
That the beam will change to a trifling
note,

That the world is bad when you are sad,
And bright and beautiful when glad;
That all you need is a little song—
If you'll sing the song as you trudge along!

A FEW ANNOYANCES.

Vivid Description of One Day's Work in the Household by Simon's Wife

We have not had much company lately and have been too busy to go anywhere. I began to want to see somebody, so I coaxed Simon to go to church this morning. He tried to beg off because he had been working hard in the cornfield and wanted to stay at home for a good long nap. I was sorry afterwards that I did not let him, for he got so sleepy I had to keep an eye on him all the time, besides now and then slyly kicking his foot, or sitting up close enough to give him a punch with my elbow under my cape. Then I remembered that the wash boiler sprung a leak last Monday and I had neglected sending it to the shop to be mended, so when I knew Simon was wide enough awake to avoid the disgrace of snoring my mind was busy with plans to get my washing done without a boiler, and I really understood very little of the sermon. But after it was over we stayed around as long as we could to visit, and came home feeling quite refreshed up.

I believe I think as much of my family as most women, but I often wish they

A CURE WITHOUT AN OPERATION

Children 4 to 8 weeks. Adults 7 to 14.

No Experimenting, Everything a Certainty

OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO SEVERE, LONG-STANDING CASES. REMEMBER—Age of person or length of time ruptured makes no difference. Every case a success. After 30 years' continuous practical experience I have produced the Grandest Instruments the World Ever Saw!! Knowing the true cause of Rupture, and having discovered the secret (at present known only to myself), Instantaneous Relief is Afforded, Safety is Assured and a Cure Ejected—with little expense, no pain, loss of time or labor; without the doubtful, HAZARDOUS and ever costly expedient of an operation. DON'T abandon HOPE—as I Offer you Great Encouragement! Without egotism, I would say I am prepared to do what no other man in America can do, viz.: Hold any reducible Hernia during the hardest work or severest strain—even horseback riding. Where failure has been the result in the United States and the large hospitals in the great cities of Europe, cases given up as hopeless, I alone succeeded. Don't "put off" your case or that of your child: regret and sorrow may come when least expected, and too late to remedy. Your rupture gives little trouble now, and appears trifling. You neglect it. This is where your danger lies.

Coming!

BE WARNED IN TIME! Should your rupture be hidden from view by some large clumsy truss you are lulled into a sense of false security. Your Hernia is not held, and you are in a more dangerous condition than you imagine. Now heed this Caution, 'ere it be too late! Unless the Hernia is completely reduced within the internal ring (where nature placed it) and constantly held there, adhesion might ensue, resulting in strangulation of the parts, rendering you liable at any moment to a frightful death.

An ill fitting truss, from intense, unequal pressure on one side, causes a Double Rupture, induces Paralysis, weakens the Generative organization, causes general nervous prostration, Kidney-Urinary troubles, constipation and kindred ailments.

AN INTERVIEW WITH A COLLEGE PRESIDENT.

His Many Duties Caused His Health to Break Down—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restore Him to Activity.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.

The Hartsville College, situated at Hartsville, Indiana, was founded years ago in the interest of the United Brethren Church, when the state was mostly a wilderness, and colleges were scarce. The college is well known throughout the country, former students having gone into all parts of the world.

A reporter recently called at this famous seat of learning and was shown into the room of the president, Prof. Alvin P. Barnaby. When last seen by the reporter Prof. Barnaby was in delicate health. To-day he was apparently in the best of health. In response to an inquiry the professor said:

"Oh, yes, I am much better than for some time, I am now in perfect health, but my recovery was brought about in rather a peculiar way."

"Tell me about it," said the reporter.

"Well, to begin at the beginning," said the professor, "I studied too hard when at school, endeavoring to educate myself for the profession. After completing the common course I came here, and graduated from the theological course. I entered the ministry and accepted the charge of a United Brethren church at a small place in Kent County, Mich. Being of an ambitious nature, I applied myself

Hernia. I have known cases ruined for life by placing themselves in the hands of ignorant pretenders having not the slightest conception of the first principles of human anatomy. He who makes a specialty of one department must certainly be regarded as possessing more experience and better facilities for the treatment of any particular trouble—AND CERTAINLY MORE CAPABLE—than anyone having "many irons in the fire."

A WOMAN'S TRIUMPH.

She Managed Her Work So Well That It Equalled the Efforts of Professionals.

While it is well known that any woman of intelligence can do as good work with the Diamond Dyes, and at less than half the cost charged by professional dyers in city steam dye houses, yet there may be some people who doubt the statement. The following extracts from a letter written by Mrs. J. Gardner, of Owen Sound, Ont., prove that Diamond Dyes are unequalled:

"There was a man in our town, going from house to house taking orders for a Toronto dye house for the dyeing of all kinds of garments and clothes. I had just taken off the line some goods that I had dyed with Diamond Dyes, and showed him that I could do as good work as any dye house. He honestly admitted that I was right about my work with Diamond Dyes."

"Having a large family, I use Diamond Dyes to economize. I have always the best of success with your dyes, and must say that I am more than delighted with your colors for dyeing cotton."

most women, but I often wish they could all be out of the way till I got my work done up. One day last week I was in an awful hurry to get some baking done. I ran to the cellar for a cap of cream and was trying my best to reach the mixing pan, before it dropped too much for me to hold and when I got to the pantry door I had to halt, for Simon and the children were in there holding council over a melon Katy had picked. Simon had the towel and was vigorously wiping his face and hands while he inspected the fruit. I hustled them all out of the way and they thought me cross and unsympathetic. I made my cookies that day from equal parts of sour cream and sugar, with a proper amount of soda, a little salt and nutmeg. They were so good that Simon and the children ate half the batch before I finished baking and the rest was gone in no time. They made such an ady over them that I had not the stomach to refuse so long as one was left. I was not too blind though to notice how much more ready they all were to mention my ill temper when I drove them out of the pantry, than they were to make a fuss over my goodness in allowing them to eat all my cookies.

The children let flies into the house, too, and that frets Lou. She insists on having tanglefoot everywhere, and it is a great nuisance; always ready to form unpleasant attachments.

Last year a sheet of it that she put in the woodhouse stuck fast to a turkey's tail and the poor fowl was trying to run away from it for two or three days. That made fun for the children and even Simon had a hearty laugh over it. Last week the stuff made another little episode for us. Lou had spread some upon the dining table. When supper time came she was flustered because company came and I was in the huckleberry swamp. In her hurry to get the paper out of the way she could think of no other place, so she slipped it into the plant window on the floor. The plants were all out and the curtain drawn, so no one saw it.

That night Simon thought he heard something or somebody around the house, got up to look out, and just stepped into the plant window and—tanglefoot. He raised such a racket that it woke nearly everybody in the house.

The minister, who converted him once, was staying with us. If he understood what was said, he must have thought it high time the job was done over again.

People used to have to take all the flies that came, except what they managed to trap in a tumbler of soap suds covered with a slice of sweetened bread, or smashed between a couple of shingles spread on the inside with molasses and suspended from the ceiling by a string. They lived to a good old age then, too, so I guess a dozen or two flies will not kill any of us now. At least I shall never wear myself out chasing after them.—Simon's Wife.

Cheerfulness

From the lowest point of view hope is very cheap, and gladness acts as a sovereign medicine. Sunshine has not a stronger effect in developing the beauty of flowers or the form of leaves than radiance of mind and lightness of heart in bringing forth all which is best in men and women. We have partly found this out as regards children, and society conspires nowadays to render their early years happy. The Japanese recognized that same high duty two thousand years ago, and possess, in consequence, the best-mannered and most joyous little ones in the world. But why stop at childhood? I should like to see the pastimes and recreations of the people made henceforth a department of administrative solicitude. I should like to have a minister of public amusement sitting in every cabinet, and municipal councils spending rates royally upon new popular pleasures of the right kind. There is nothing better than to be happy. Joy is the real root of morality; no virtue is worth praising which does not spring from minds contented and convinced, and free of dread and gloom; no religion was ever divine which relied on terror instead of love; and no philosophy will bear any good fruit which proounds despair and degrades annihilation.—Sir Edwin Arnold.

diligently to my work and studies. In time I noticed that my health was failing. My trouble was indigestion, and this with other troubles brought on nervousness.

My physician prescribed for me for some time, and advised me to try a change of climate, I did as he requested and was some improved. Soon after, I came here as professor in physics and chemistry, and later was financial agent of this college. The change agreed with me, and for a while my health was better, but my duties were heavy, and again I found my trouble returning. This time it was more severe and in the winter I became completely prostrated. I tried various medicines and different physicians. Finally, I was able to return to my duties. In the spring of 1896 I was elected president of the college. Again I had considerable work, and the trouble which had not been entirely cured, began to affect me, and last fall I collapsed. I had different doctors, but none did me any good. Professor Bowman, who is professor of natural science, told me of his experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and urged me to give them a trial, because they had benefited him in a similar case, and I concluded to try them.

The first box helped me, and the second gave great relief, such as I had never experienced from the treatment of any physician. After using six boxes of the medicine I was entirely cured. Today I am perfectly well. I feel better and stronger than for years. I certainly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to similar sufferers and overworked people.

If I shall be elected jailer of Morgan county (you all know I am a candidate) I don't expect to make a law nor repeal one. I don't intend to enact a financial bill nor a tariff bill, but I do expect to execute that part of the Kentucky statutes that applies to the office of jailer. I will feed and care for the prisoners as best I can, and take care of the public buildings and keep them clean.

I have been voting for Democrats for local offices, more or less, all my life, and now I want some Democrats to vote for me, and, by gum, I must have them, for it's a ground-hog case. I feel sure that the Republican party in this county will stand by me to a man, but that won't quite reach. I am bound to have some Democrats.

BAUDER TWINS.

Harold Asked Eugene to Take His Place and There'll Be a Run.

When the Bauder twins had finished their supper the other night Harold called Eugene into his room, and closing the door, said:

"Mother wants to talk to me about something this evening, Gene, but I am engaged for a spin out to Lincoln Park with another girl. Now, if you want to do me a good turn you'll represent me on this occasion."

"Certainly, if the girl don't object," answered Eugene, sweetly.

"None of your chaff—you know what I mean—take my place with mother."

"Thanks, awfully. I like that kind of an engagement. While you are out on a tandem with your best girl I am to stay here and be roasted. Nice prospect for the wrong twin."

"I have taken many a roasting for you from the gov'nor, Gene. Turn about is fair play."

"All right, Hal. But I wish it was the gov'nor instead of the mater—she is so awfully particular—and keeps a fellow forever. However, I'll stand by you this time. Only suppose she finds out."

"She won't," said Harold, and he hurried off, leaving Eugene as his proxy.

Mrs. Bauder sat waiting for Harold, and when the wrong twin entered her presence with a silent step and subdued air, she said:

"I am glad, Harold, that you remembered my wish to speak to you this evening, as I have something particular to say, and I want you to be interested."

"Yes-in-m," mumbled Eugene, who almost lost his head in the start by trying to recall Harold's parental pose.

"I'd give something to know how he acts when he has a private and particular with the mater," he thought; "does he hang his feet over the back of the chair kind of easy, or sit up prim and proper?" then he cleared his throat and stared gravely at his mother.

"It is about your brother Eugene I wish to speak," she said, and the wrong twin shot into the air and sat down again.

"I do wish you would be more dignified," urged Mrs. Bauder; "now that you are engaged to be married you should cultivate more repose of manner. You act as flippant as your brother."

"Well, I like that," said Eugene, forgetting for a moment his role of Harold, but his mother continued.

"I have enough frivolity to contend with in his character, and it is of that I wish to speak to-night. Eugene is much to giddy for his age, and I want you to help me improve him."

"Oh, Gene is all right," said the wrong twin.

"I would be glad if he took more interest in the society of girls," said Mrs. Bauder.

"Is there a society of that name?" asked Eugene innocently.

"When you are married," resumed his mother, ignoring the question, "I shall hope or a great deal of assistance from your wife's influence. Nothing steadies a young man down like having good women friends."

Here it occurred to the wrong twin to put in a good word for himself.

"Why is it necessary to steady Gene down?" he asked in Harold's best manner.

"Why, I am sure my son, you are always complaining of him," said Mrs. Bauder, and Eugene announced to himself that he had it in for Harold. But he said in a conciliatory tone:

"Mere boyish pranks, mother. Eugene is a good fellow enough as boys go—I have yet to hear of him doing a dishonorable thing. How could he after such lessons as you have given. (I would like to wring Harold's neck!) I really think you can trust him to come out all right. (Some day he'll prove another Cain!) I will look after him myself, and advise him if I see him going wrong."

"Spoken like my own Harold," said the mother with fervor. "I love you both, but I cannot close my eyes to Eugene's thoughtlessness, and I look to you to reform him."

Then she kissed the wrong twin for his brother and dismissed him, and Eugene fell over himself in getting out of the room, while he concocted dark schemes of vengeance against Harold, and as he revolved them in his mind he laughed and chuckled like a fiend.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Just recovered? then there's naught for me to tell.

But for me, I've arisen
From a grim and grippy prison,
And desire in me is willing
All the world to be a-telling
Of my singular sensations,
My extreme exacerbations,
My unbounded irritations,
And intense exacerbations.

First of all, a sudden shiver,
Like a ripple on the river,
Gets your narrow all-a-quiver,
Without any cause whatever,
And from thence go hurry-scurry,
Helter-skelter, flirr-scurry,
Darting, little icy particles
Through the nine-and-thirty articles
(rather more or rather less),
That your body may possess.
And your teeth begin to chatter—
Though the speech is no great matter—
Halt a gromp and half a grumble,
And the chills you catch are funble.
And you cowers shaking, quaking,
When—your teeth set up an aching!
Cupid, molar, each one taking
His peculiar line of deviltry,
As in some infernal revelry,
With a throbbing and a jobbing,
And a stabbing and a jabbing,
And a jerking and a dirking,
As if all were Greek-and-Turking,
And a naggifg and a jaggifg,
And a darting and a smarting,
As of soul and body parting.

Then your head takes up the story
Crying: "I will ache for glory!
I will ache with such an aching
As the world shall not avail me,
Pain will sit upon my banner,
To have ached in such a manner,
And it ached 'till every brain-cell
Is transfigured to a pain-cell;
Till cerebrum, cerebellum,
To balloons of anguish swell 'em,
And medulla oblongata,
Wears the crown of saint and martyr.

Then your knees ache; and your nose
aches;

And each smallest of your toes aches;
And your throat's a ring of iron
Which your tongue lies parched and

This is to be a fur winter, and fancy braids and jet passementerie are not to take the place of sable and fox, ermine and chinchilla. They are simply to form the basis of rich toilets, but the finishing touches are to be of fur. Capes of plaited satin and plaited velvet have collar pelerines which just cover the shoulders like yokes, of grebe and mouton, sable, Arctic fox, seal or mink. Sable never looks so beautiful as when used in conjunction with rich velvet and brocades, and is therefore especially appropriate for evening cloaks. A mantle of miscolored blue velvet in a deep but brilliant shade is cut in a circular shape and bordered with sable tails. The Elizabethan collar is continued in long narrow revers down the front. The linings of the costly wraps are almost as rich as the outside, and this one of blue velvet is lined with white brocade with a large design of lilies and lily leaves traced in silver thread.

A gorgeous garment is of pale pink brocade with clusters of white and mauve lilies scattered over the surface, and a border of white and a rolling col-

THE RESPECT PAID TO WOMEN.

W.T. STEAD COMPARES THEIR PLACE IN BRITAIN AND THE U.S.

American Cheap Courtesy—Less Show
But More Respect in Britain—England's Queen an Example of the National Feeling—Cruel Forbearance.

The question which you have submitted to me is one which is extremely difficult to answer with candor and without offence. You ask me to define what seems to me the difference between the respect paid to woman in England and the United States. To answer this question exhaustively and accurately would be to anticipate the verdict of the last day upon our respective civilizations. For there is no more authentic gauge or metre-rod of civilization than the position which they accord to woman. Woman is nearer the divine than man. Hence to ask, What think you of woman? is to demand an answer which will reveal how much the answerer has been evolved from brutality, how far he has ascended the unending spiral which leads from clay to deity.

Judged by this test there are millions alike of Americans and of English who can hardly be regarded as civilized at all. Woman is to these masses if poor a mere drudge, if rich a mere plaything, as she has been through long past ages of slow developments and as she is still to-day in more than one-half the nations of the world. But there is no use considering these aborigines. The only way is to arrive at an estimate of the difference between the respect shown to women in England and America is to compare the way in which the best people in each country—those who have made the furthest advance from that barbarism which writhes abysmally round the base of all our civilization—regard their women.

I am afraid that I shall be in danger of being stoned in your market place if I express my frank opinion, but as you demand it I must run the risk.

My opportunities of observation have, of course, been very limited, but so far as they have gone the sum and substance of my conclusion is that the American woman has far more of superficial respect than her English sister, but that English women, if they receive less of the small change of outward courtesy, do nevertheless receive much more solid and serious respect and consideration than American women enjoy. This may be heresy in your eyes, but I speak as I have seen and as I believe.

I don't underestimate the small change of civilities. Englishmen of the old school are in this respect far and away the superior of the young and less ceremonious generation. It is an object lesson in good manners to see the courtly courtesy, which Mr. Gladstone, for instance, will pay to any woman. And I was much impressed the first time I ever met Mr. Carlyle to see the same stately, ceremonial politeness displayed by the rugged, old Scotch peasant-born philosopher that graces the bearing of the most punctilious courtier. But, after all, these bows and compliments, though graceful and pleasant are but the tithe of mint and anise and cinnamon. They can, too, exist very often side by side with the profoundest contempt for woman whenever she essays to be anything but the mere ornamental auxiliary of man.

There is indeed some truth in the paradox that a certain apparent lack of ceremony in the treatment of women is often the index of the reality of an underlying respect. Men who are real friends, comrades, who risk their lives together in the ranks, do not stand on ceremonies. The intense and intimacy of their regard for each other transcends the needs for those more or less symbolic methods of indicating respect. So it is with women. When you meet a woman as an equal intellectually and as a real force in the work of the world the more close your union the more absurd and unnecessary will seem the parandomalia of conventional courtesy. These things are good to symbolize respect, but when you have the thing itself the trappings are apt to appear superfluous.

The time is rapidly passing—I am writing on the Teutonic as she is streaming down to Sandy Hook and I cannot do more than indicate three things in which I think the difference between the two nations in their respect for women may be noted.

(1) The English are not ashamed to place a woman high above all the pretensions, to keep her there for 6 years and to give her a direct and most potent voice in settling all the great affairs of state from dealing with which the American Republic women are debarred. You may say the Queen is only a figurehead. If so, she is much more than a figurehead and in a tent men chiv-

No woman has the right to be a helpless, sick, nervous, fretful burden to her husband. If she is, it is due to her own ignorance or neglect. If she will take proper care of herself and look after the health of the delicate organs that are the most important parts of her physical make-up, she will soon be a healthy, amiable, helpful, instead of a burden to the partner of her joys and sorrows. No woman who suffers from weakness and disease of the distinctly womanly organs can be a good, helpful wife to an ambitious man. It is easy to keep these organs healthy and vigorous.

The most wonderful medicine for women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the organs that make her a woman. It cures all weakness and disease. It allays inflammation, soothes pain, and permits the tortured nerves to resume their natural condition. It stops all weakening drains and the woman who has hitherto been nervous, weak and fretful becomes robust, helpful and happy. Thousands of happy women, who were once pain-tortured and miserable, testify to its virtues. All good druggists sell it.

"I write you these few lines to let you know the good your 'Favorite Prescription' did my wife," writes Dennis H. Connelly, Esq., of Clevel Water, Wright Co., Minn. "Previous to motherhood she was very sick. She could not do her own work until she took two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription.' She took her Doctor's medicine but it did her no good. Your medicine is the best my wife ever had."

Have you a good reliable medical book in the house? There ought to be one in every family in the world. Of all the medical books published there is not one so comprehensive and reliable as Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. In all its 1,008 pages there is not one sentence that may not be readily understood. No physician in the world has been a greater benefactor than has Dr. Pierce. The best he knows is in this book. It is illustrated with over 300 plates and drawings. It talks about hundreds of ailments and tells you how to cure them. You may have this book for the cost of mailing it. For the book in paper covers send 31 one-cent stamps, to cover the cost of customs and mailing only. For cloth cover send 50 stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

SANG PRAISES OF THE GOAT.

Mrs. Mulvany Was Glad She Had It But Would Sell It to a Friend.

"Good mornin', Mrs. Mulvany, I do hearin' your man has bought a new milk goat."

"Thine for you, he has that," said Mrs. Mulvany, "an' how I ever got along wid all them children an' without that goat I can't tell. It's as good as a cow in the family any day."

"Do the childer take to goat's milk, Mrs. Mulvany?"

"Sorra a sup of it have they tasted yet, the darlings."

"But—"

"Faith it don't, then. It's as gentle as pig and twicet as intelligent."

"What I would be after knowin', Mrs. Mulvany, is why you don't drink the milk?"

"Wurra, Mrs. McCarty, where do be the sinse of drinkin' the milk when goat's milk cheese is at a premium in the stores?"

"Oh, it's cheese you do be makin'? Might I put me two eyes on one of 'em cheeses for a trade now?"

"Hummum! I don't mind tellin' yeas that I haven't got me hand in wid the cheese so as to be offerin' it to my friends yet. You shall have the first choice, Mrs. McCarty, though them delicatessen stores do be wantin' all I can make, an' more, too."

"What's that awful noise, Mrs. Mulvany?"

"Nathin', sure, but that blissful goat! It's that divertin' it makes me laugh till I'm tired to see its antics. A family isn't complete without a goat."

"Whatever has become of the children?" asked the neighbor looking about her.

"Whish! The darlings do be hidin' on the roof of the house wid the chimney betwix them an' the goat. It do be thinin' years is after hearin' make believe. That goat! I tell ya, Mrs. McCarty, it can climb to the ridge pole like a cat. D'ye hear it a little f'et goin' kiltkey klimp on the roof. It runs up an' down all night, an' me man he says it reminds him of the days in Tipperary when the bhos' wakelid him up for a lark by throwin' stones on the roof. It do be wearin' the ass cushions that goat brings up."

"Well, Mrs. Mulvany, I must be goin'," said her neighbor, rising to leave, while the children screamed louder and the goat's feet beat a more vigorous protest on the roof. "I'm glad you have such a valuable addition to the family. I may be after buyin' a goat myself who knows?"

"By meedle," said Mrs. Mulvany in a husky whisper. "I would sell it cheap if you're a-beggin' me to do it, the dar-stay we boldly denied that any of us had cared anything for the widow or had lent her a dollar.

Five years later, while I was at another spring—this time a cold one—for the benefit of my digestion, a lady and gentleman drove up one evening from the depot, and I at once recognized the Widow Hendricks. She was just as young and cute and pretty as ever, but I took it that she had been married since I saw her last. I didn't put myself forward at all, but after supper she ran across me on the verandah, and uttering a little exclamation of glad surprise reached out both hands and said: "Why, Mr. Renfrew—George—how do you do?" "Why, I haven't met you since—"

"Madam, I beg your pardon," I interrupted, "but you seem to have made a mistake."

"But you are—are George?"

"No, madam. My name is Boggs—Abraham Boggs, Esq., dealer in grindstones, green hides and guano."

"And you never lent me a thousand dollars to pay my dressmaker?"

"Never! That isn't Abraham Boggs."

"But you—"

"Boggs, madam—Boggs. I simply happen to look like Mr. Renfrew, who was probably some sentimental idiot, and your mistake is excusable. Try some one else, madam—good night!"

No Help For Her.

Poor fellow! He was all "blown up," tensed his head down his cheeks, and he would not "Come," said one of his friends, "brace up, red, puffed up, old man. It's too bad that you last night outside, but almost any of that's liable to happen to us. Of course they'll discharge you when they find out how it was, and you needn't worry any about the money if they do fine you. We'll see that you get out of it all right."

"Oh," cried the disconcerted isolate one, "I'll never be able to live this down. It's awful nice of you boys to try to help me out, but what has been done can't be undone."

"Pshaw! Others have been arrested by mistake before you, and got out of it all right. Why don't you do the same?"

"It isn't the arrest," he sobbed, "I don't care for that. But here it's nine o'clock in the morning, and I've got my dress suit on!"

Then he buried his face in his hands, and the others were silent. They knew that he was ruined forever.—Cleveland Leader.

brocade with clusters of white and mauve blues scattered over the surface. The lining is of sable, and a rolling collar of sable has ruffles of lace inside, and is fastened with a huge hook and eye of diamonds.

Another beautiful evening wrap—these so-called evening mantles are worn, also, for carriage calls and with very handsome afternoon toiletts—is of chinchilla, lined with ermine. It has a rolling collar, a yoke and a deep frill of fur over the cape proper, which falls below the waist.

A tiny little out-door cape is made of sealskin, with high collar and pointed yoke. The yoke is edged by a full ruffle of soft gray chinchilla.

No Birds on Women's Hats.

Woman has won her crusade against the slaughter of the song bird for the purposes of the milliner. The fall season is now in full swing and the feature of the display of hats and bonnets is the almost total disappearance of anything in the way of plumage that in life had a musical voice. The change is not a matter of conscience with the milliner. Fashion has been fairly beaten, and the re is little or no demand for what was once all the style.

The fight was on for years, and the crusade progressed slowly, but the women have won a decisive victory at last and the song bird henceforth goes unmolested. The change is radical. It was only a short time ago that a woman found it next to impossible to purchase a hat that did not have from one to three of the songsters on it. And when she protested and declared that she would not buy the hat unless something was substituted in the way of decoration the scorn on the milliner's face was a study for a genre painter. Now, many of the big stores make a point of the fact that there is not a "song bird" hat in the establishment.

The fashionable colors this fall are brown, gray, castor, which is a grayish-brown, and tan. But the very swollen hat of all is black. It is the most expensive, too, for it must be made of velvet and loaded with ostrich feathers. Not the short Prince of Wales tips, either, for they are hopelessly passé, but the old-time plume, which is large enough to cover the side of an ordinary hat and droop over the brim besides.

Modish Sleeves and Skirts.

The small gigot sleeves, with double epaulettes, edged with Chantilly, are worn, as they give width to the shoulders and pretty lines to the shoulders. Long-wristed sleeves have fewer lace frillings attached than they had during the last part of the summer, and the latest style shows the bottom intricated, but it flares over the hand, having inside mouseline de sole frills. These keep the wrists in perfect shape and give the inside a dainty finish.

Crumpled sleeves suit many arms, and so remain in vogue, being simply made and draped at the top.

All readily admit that there are to be several points of difference in the making of the skirts this season. However, but few are aware that in one of the latest designs the folds of the skirt hang to the feet, and this is the most noticeable feature of fashion at the present time; and all skirts are narrower, and seldom is a very wide skirt seen on any occasion; but the widest are cut in one piece, circular, and this style is not to be attempted by any dressmaker not a genius in skirt hanging. These facts should be carefully noted. There are fewer gores—never more than five.

The front and side-breaths are much straighter but still fit tightly over the hips, all fullness being carried well to the back, where it is laid in small box-pleats.

Novel Weaves and Colors.

Shot silks are out of style, so if you desire to use one left over from last season in good condition wear it under a muslin, a grenadine or any other transparent fabric. Much plaid taffeta will be worn and the popular shades will be Parma violet, turquoise blue, moss greens, numerous shades of red and pink. For evening wear lovely are the hues obtainable in good qualities of poutie soie, which is to be a popular fabric. Old rose, lime green, vert lumine (the new grass-green color) and peach are thoroughly appreciated by stylish women.

The new moire has the pattern now carried across the silk, like mother-of-pearl, in an almost indescribable zigzag which has a different effect in every light; some are striped and other spoted.

There are numerous zigzag ribbon effects, not only in moires, but in other silks as well, and satin-edged stripes are certainly effective. They are also seen on moire and silk lattice-work patterns, and in some extremely handsome brocades tinsel is employed.

Much satin will be worn by both matrons and young girls in the evening, but for the very youthful the popline Francaise and simple armures, in delicate shades, will be liked.

debarred. You may say the Queen is only a figurehead. If so, she is indeed the liveliest and most pert figurehead in history.

The charge of being such a figurehead is denied by your constituent and customs to the ablest person of the States if she should chance to be born a woman.

(2) No American gentleman ever ventures to contradict a woman. He will listen with imperturbable politeness to some fine lady friend talking the most palpable nonsense about a subject which he knows at his fingers' end. But it allows her to meander on only when she ceases and quits the room the expressive shrug of the shoulders and sigh of relief bear testimony to his forbearance. It is a cruel forbearance based upon a radical lack of respect. When a woman makes a fool of herself by making statements that are not correct, drawing illogical conclusions and generally displaying a somewhat retarded intellectual development, it is very false kindness to let them revel in the mistaken belief that they are true and well founded, whereas in reality they are foolish and most ignorant. No man would feel he was being treated with respect if he was not pulled up sharp when he made a fool of himself, because forsooth of the respect due his sex. Such false courtesy and forbearance are in reality the subtlest form of insult. Until you can discuss with a woman as freely and contradict her as frankly as a man, she can never feel that she is regarded as other than a child, an engaging, fascinating creature no doubt, but not a person to be taken seriously as a practical factor in this rough, workaday world.

(3) The greatest difficulty which we men have to contend with in journalism and in other branches of work is the pseudo respect which compels her employers to accord to her a less severe treatment than that accorded to man. "I never employ women," said an editor once. "Never! You cannot say 'damn' to a woman." He didn't say "damn" to men either, but what he meant was sound. He means that women too often resent having their knuckles rapped when they make a mess of their work, that they expect to be let off easy because of their sex—other words, that their work instead of being judged as work is always to be judged as mere woman's work. Now that is not to my thinking true respect. But the pilot is leaving, so I must stop.—W. T. Stead, in New York World.

Byron as He Was.

"His character and his conduct presented uncasing contradictions; it seemed as if two different souls occupied his body alternately. One was feminine and full of sympathy; the other masculine and characterized by a clear judgment. When one soul arrived the other departed. In company, his sympathetic soul was his tyrant; alone, or with a single person, his masculine prudence displayed itself. No man could then arrange facts, investigate their causes or examine their consequences with more logical accuracy or a more practical spirit. Yet, in his most sagacious moment, the entrance of a third person would derange the order of his ideas; judgment fled, and sympathy (generally laughing) took its place. Hence he appeared in his conduct extremely capricious, while in his opinions he had great firmness. Often, however, he displayed a feminine turn for deception in trifles; while at the same time he possessed a feminine candor of soul and a natural love of truth which made him often despise himself quite as much as he despised others for what he called brazen hypocrisy.—From 'Lord Byron, in the Greek Revolution,' by F. B. Sanborn, in Scribner's.

His First Chance.

"Is there a man in all the audience," demanded the female speaker on woman's right, fiercely, "that has ever done anything to lighten the burden resting on his wife's shoulders? Is there a man here," she continued, folding her arms with superb scorn, "that has ever got up in the morning, leaving his tired, worn-out wife to enjoy her slumbers, gone quietly downstairs, made the fire, cooked his own breakfast, sewn the missing buttons on the children's shoes, darned the family stockings, secured the pots and kettles, cleaned and filled the lamps, swept the kitchen, and done all this, if necessary, day after day uncomplainingly? If there is such a man in this audience, let him stand up. I should like to see him."

And far back in the hall a middle-looking man in spectacles, in obedience to the summons, timidly arose. He was the husband of the eloquent speaker. It was the first chance he had ever had to assert himself.—Tid-Bits.

"Buy 'moine," said Mrs. Mulvanny in a husky whisper. "I would sell it cheap before we became too fond of the darlings. Why it's that diverting you'd never pass a lonely hour, not look at the tally of it! Sure, it's the most aristocratic of all pots."

Mrs. McCarty said she would think about it, but as the goat came down from Mrs. Mulvanny's roof and chased her home, she is probably thinking of it yet.

Immediately after being stung by a bee, press the hollow barrel of a key around the sting until it begins to hurt. On removing the key the sting will be found lying outside the ring formed by the pressure of the key barrel. All pain ceases at once, no swelling takes place, and in a few minutes it is difficult to find the spot which has been stung.

Decoy Ducks.

A Napanee man had an experience last Sunday that he does not wish duplicated. He purchased seven wild ducks on the market on Saturday. At dinner on Sunday four of the ducks were dished up for his reflection by his wife. Judge of his surprise when he essayed to carve the birds they proved invulnerable to the attack of knife and fork. He learned afterwards that they were of the species commonly called "hell divers" and the only known way of dispatching them is with dynamite. The citizen took the remaining three ducks down town on Monday and sold them to one of our local sports, who is somewhat of a nimrod. The young man was so elated over his purchase that he took them to his boarding house and ordered the cook to fix them up for his dinner. He demonstrated to the lady how the birds had succumbed to his unerring aim and left her with a satisfied smile on his face. The cook, who had some experience in the fowl line, quietly hung them up on a clothes line in the back yard, and it is her intention to use the skins for shoe laces when they are sufficiently tanned.

Both Burned To Death.

A Tweed despatch says that the village of Bridgewater, five miles north of there, is in a state of mourning over the horrible death which overtook little Beatrice and Ethel Eager, aged 6 and 9 years respectively, while sound asleep at an early hour on Saturday morning. The children were visiting an aunt in Bridgewater, who put them to bed about 9 o'clock, and then locked the house, and retired to spend the night at the bedside of a sick neighbor. At two o'clock flames were seen issuing from the rear of Mrs. Eager's residence, and in a few seconds the entire house was engulfed in flames. Mrs. Eager was one of the first to arrive on the scene, and rushed through the roaring flames to the stairway to rescue the children. As she burst open the door the flames rushed past her, and in an instant the upstairs was a seething furnace. Her two boys slept in the first room, but before Mrs. Eager had reached the room one of them had leaped from the window. Seizing the other she threw him through the open window, and then made a mad rush to rescue the girls, who were sound asleep, little dreaming of the awful death that awaited them. On the way she was overcome by the heat and in a few seconds her clothes caught fire. Stunned, burned and blinded, she fell to the floor, and groped her way to the window and threw herself to the ground, where willing hands came to her rescue and tore the burning clothes from her body. All efforts to save the children were useless, and in another instant the roof fell in, burying the bodies of the unfortunate children in the burning embers. Mrs. Eager was terribly burned but survived.

The occupations of the prisoners are as follows: Of the males there was 1 commercial traveller, 1 baker, 1 bartender, 1 boy, 1 butcher, 1 carpenter, 7 farmers, 21 labourers, 2 sailors, 4 tailor. Of the females 8 were servants and a washwoman.

THE AFTER-MATH

OF THE PONTON TRIAL.

The excitement over the Ponton trial has subsided and the mystery surrounding the robbery of the Dominion Bank is no nearer a solution. Many theories and conjectures as to the probable manner in which the job was accomplished have been advanced, but the one which THE EXPRESS had the distinction of first promulgating and which connected the tramps, who were camped on Hawley's Point during the summer, with the burglary, is the one most generally accepted. In connection with this the following from the Oshawa Vindicator will prove of interest:

J. S. Murray, who returned recently from his trip to Scotland, stopped the Vindicator man on the street and inquired when the Napanee bank robbery occurred. He was told on the night of August 27th, whereupon he stated that the steamer Scotsman, which left Montreal on August 28th, contained two foreigners. One had shipped for Copenhagen, the other for Berlin. One was a steersman, the other an intermediate passenger. They had plenty of money, and spent it freely. He noticed particularly that they kept apart, and did not appear to have anything in common with each other, but were often together in quiet parts of the ship, and would separate when a third party approached. One was tall and slight in build, the other short and thick-set, with a blonde face. He was a German. The tall man had a dark chin whisker and had several tools in his pockets, and claimed that his mechanical ingenuity had been employed in handling patient rights, and his success in that line accounted for his abundant supply of money. Both men kept a close eye on their bunks and whenever anyone approached their sleeping-place the passengers were soon on hand.

Mr. Murray said he was particularly impressed with their freedom with money, and it was not until Tuesday that the thought occurred to him that they might have got their money in Napanee. Hence his inquiry of the date of the robbery. They came to the ship at the last moment, and on the way over he became quite intimate with them and they had several games of cards together to while away the time. He could not remember their names. They were foreign names, but he would know them again if he heard them. There was a man on from Belleville whose name he thought was Lindsay. In speaking of Belleville on ship board one day, it was clear that the two moneyed men knew more about the place and surrounding country than Lindsay.

Mr. Murray's statement, supported by the fact that two of the unsigned stolen $10 bills were put in circulation at Montreal, hangs together so well that it would seem there is something in the story worth investigating.

PONTON HAS ISSUED A WRIT.

W. H. Ponton, through his solicitor, Mr. E. Gass Porter, has issued a writ for $50,000 against the Dominion Bank for damages incurred on account of being dismissed from the Napanee branch and for false arrest and imprisonment. The writ also includes Mr. C. Bogart, assistant manager of the Toronto branch, who personally directed the prosecution, and detectives Dougherty and Wilkes for conspiring to injure Mr. Ponton.

A NEW SET OF OFFICERS.

The Dominion Bank here has a brand new set of officers. The new manager, Mr. A. Pepler, is no stranger to the people of Napanee and is well and favorably known here. The following from The Guelph Herald explains it:

"A change has been made in the Dominion Bank here, whereby Guelph will lose one of its most respected citizens. Mr. A. Pepler, the popular and obliging manager, received word on Wednesday of his transfer to the branch at Napanee. Mr. Pepler came here from Toronto about five years ago, and took charge of the branch. His fine business qualities and thoroughly gentlemanly disposition won him immediate popularity among the business men and citizens generally. On the retirement of ex-Ad. Calvert from the presidency of St. George's Society, Mr. Pepler was elected to fill the honorable position. He evinced a live, public spirit in all matters pertaining to the interests of the city. In St. George's congregation he has rendered valuable service as one of the churchwardens and a member of the choir. He is to succeed Mr. Calvert in the presidency of the society, and will be greatly missed by the members of the congregation. His departure will be a loss to the city, but the new manager will fill the gap left by his departure."

A. C. McCauley, at one time a grain buyer in Napanee, Belleville and Trenton, has gone wrong in Chicago. He is under arrest in the Windy City for swindling and using the mails for illegal purposes. There are over 2,000 complaints against McCauley.

A troupe of vagabonds with performing bears, monkeys and all the other et ceteras, struck town on Friday. They were given a half an hour to shake the dust of the town off their feet and their imprecations as they vanished in the direction of Piety Hill made the air blue.

Isaac Green, sr., Tyendinaga Reserve, still continues very ill and his death is daily expected. The doctor contends that the vitality of the sick man is remarkable and beyond description as he is reduced to a mere skeleton, and has abstained from food for nearly three weeks.

An interesting game of quoits was played at Newburgh last week between representatives of the Deseronto and Newburgh clubs resulting in a victory for Deseronto by twenty points. R. J. Geddie and Frank Claus were the representatives of Deseronto, and Jas. Thompson and Engineer Smith pitched for the glory of Newburgh.

Catarrh is a Disease which requires a constitutional remedy. It cannot be cured by local applications. Hood's Sarsaparilla is wonderfully successful in curing catarrh because it eradicates from the blood the scrofulous taints which cause it. Sufferers with catarrh find a cure in Hood's Sarsaparilla, even after other remedies utterly fail.

In Seymour east, says the Campbellford Herald, there is a woman who has made a pet of a black squirrel while it has yet the freedom of its home in the woods. The little creature goes regularly to the house for food, and often it makes its visit at a very early hour in the morning and sits upon the window sill till it gets its supply, and then it runs off to spend the day among the trees.

Mrs. Miles Shorey, daughter of the late John Percy, sr., passed over to her reward at her residence on Centre street on Saturday last. Deceased was 79 years of age and greatly esteemed for her many estimable qualities. The funeral took place on Monday to the old homestead at Fredericksburgh. The large crowd that followed the remains to their last resting place testified to the respect in which deceased was held.

The Napanee curling and skating rink has been undergoing extensive repairs and many improvements have been made. The land has been nicely rolled, two more waiting rooms have been added and new and more commodious platforms have been erected around the outside rink for the convenience of spectators and skaters. The proprietors are sparing no pains to make this rink second to none in the district.

James Young, of Marlbank, was arrested last week by Chief Adams and Constable Huff, on a charge of assaulting John McCann, of the safe place. McCann and Young had a dispute over some work and the matter was settled by Young paying all costs in the action and agreeing to abandon the work on the road until a satisfactory settlement was arrived at by the township.

WHY THEY DO NOT PASS.

Kidney Disease Prevents Hundreds of Apparently Healthy Men From Passing a Medical Examination for Life Insurance.

If you have inquired into the matter you will be surprised at the number of your friends who find themselves healthy until they undergo the medical test, and they fail in this one point. South American Kidney Cure will remove not alone the early symptoms, but all forms of kidney disease, by dissolving the uric acid and hardening substances that find place in the system. J. D. Locke of Eherbrook, One., suffered for three years from a complicated case of kidney disease, and spent over $100 for treatment. He got no relief until he used South American Kidney Cure, and he says over his own signature that four bottles cured him. Sold by A.

about the arms and face, and at the present it is impossible for her medical attendant to say just how serious her injuries are. The cause of the fire is a mystery. The most probable theory is that it was accidentally set on fire, and ruffians who were returning from a disreputable house not far away and were in search of something to eat are suspected.

Protestant Marriages.

Archbishop Cleary, of Kingston, has issued a Pastoral, which will be read in all the Catholic congregations in the diocese, in which he forbids members of his flock from attending Protestant weddings and funerals. The mandate is couched in the following language: "Wherefore, having invoked the Almighty God, We hereby declare, with all the authority of the Church vested in Us, as Archbishop of Kingston and your Chief Pastor, that any Catholic in our Metropolitan city or diocese who shall henceforth presume to enter any non Catholic edifice to assist at what is termed a marriage service, or a service for the dead, even though he should not take any active part in the performance renders himself guilty of mortal sin by dishonoring the religion of his baptism, and defying the laws of Holy Church, and giving public scandal before society: and We furthermore reserve to Ourselves alone the power to absolve from this heinous crime." His Grace's fulmination was occasioned by a marriage which took place in the Congregational Church, Kingston, the other day. It appears that a young lady member of the Archbishop's flock acted as bridesmaid at the wedding and Mgr. Cleary, issued a mandate in which he took occasion to say that a marriage not solemnized by a Catholic Priest is, strictly speaking, no marriage at all, but merely a civil contract not a whit more sacred than the marriage of any two heathens. His Grace also adds that a funeral service in a Protestant Church must necessarily be a mockery because Protestants do not believe in the efficacy of prayer for the dead. The language used in the pronouncement is gratuitously insulting to Protestants of all denominations, but we do not think that any great importance should be attached to it as we are firmly convinced it does not reflect the feelings of the great mass of Catholics throughout the Province, who desire to live in peace and amity with their Protestant brethren.

Rural Deanery Meeting.

The chapter of the Rural Deanery of Lennox & Addington assembled in the Guild Hall of St. M. M. Church on Thursday last, at the call of the Rural Dean. There was a general feeling of regret, that owing to the illness in his family, the Rev. A. Jarvis was unable to be present. After the reading of the minutes of former meeting and the adoption of the Secy. Treasurer's report, the Rev. Rural Dean Forneri M.A.B.D., addressed the Chapter. In the course of his remarks he paid a well merited tribute to the ability, zeal, brotherly-kindness and helpfulness of his predecessor, the Rev. Canon Baker. He said he (Canon Baker) was ever the enthusiastic and eloquent advocate of the cause of missions and the sympathizing friend of the Missionary Clergy. The Dean regretted the removal of the Rev. F. T. Dibb from the deanery, but they had gained instead the Rev. E. T. Evans who was already making himself felt, as a power for good in his arduous mission.

The special business of the meeting was in connection with the annual missionary meetings. A committee was appointed to draft a resolution of sympathy to the Rev. Canon Baker, upon his having, through ill health, to resign his position as Rural Dean and to be absent from his parish. The meeting was brought to a close by the Rural Dean pronouncing the benediction.

The following resolution was passed by the clergy of the Rural Deanery of Lennox and Addington at their recent meeting in Napanee. "That we, the clergy of this Rural deanery chapter, desire hereby to assure the Rev. Canon Baker, our late Rural Dean, of our heartfelt condolence with him in his present severe trials, in the lamentable death of his eldest son and in his own physical prostration, we would moreover express our deep sense of the loss this Deanery has sustained by his resignation of the office of Rural Dean, which he filled so long and with so much benefit to the cause of missions and the missionary clergy in the deanery. We earnestly pray for our beloved brother's restoration to his former health and for the lengthening of his days of usefulness." We also desire to tender Mrs. Baker and family our sincere sympathies in their afflictive circumstances and trust that all-sufficient strength and consolation, and a happy deliverance out of their troubles may be vouchsafed to them.

They came over flushed with their victory on the preceding Saturday and determined to win the cup at all hazards. The senior game was an interesting struggle between two evenly matched teams. In the first half the game was of a brilliant character and some very pretty combination play was indulged in. During this period Napanee succeeded in scoring three goals but the Picton boys were unsuccessful in their efforts to get the ball past McCoy. Napanee's plucky little goal keeper. In the second half the match was of a more open description and not much combination play was indulged in. In this half the visitors pushed the fighting and succeeded in scoring two goals. Fretts and Hall distinguished themselves in the back division, the work of Hall being especially worthy of mention. Hawley, Nixon and Burrows were much in evidence on the half back line, Burrows proving a regular enigma to his check. The work of Preston, Wilson, Miller, Lafferty and Deroche was particularly brilliant during the first half, but they were clearly out of condition in the last half. Several good stiff practices will prove of service to them for next Saturday's match. If a little more attention is given to combination play the collegiate boys should experience no difficulty in retaining the cup. The following composed the teams:

PICTON.	NAPANEE.
Hendrick	Goal
Hetheron	Backs
Gilbert
Clark	Half Backs
Morden
Williams
Yorks	Forwards
Clark
Harris
Ayers
Cryon

The junior match was stubbornly contested, but the superior combination and weight of the Picton Juniors won the match. The teams lined up as follows:

NAPANEE.	PICTON.
Given	Goal
Gibson	Backs
Elliott
Davis	Half Backs
Pringle
Gandler
Shier	Forwards
Lapum
Flinke
Russell
Mellow

The game resulted in a score of 3 to 2 in favor of Picton. The score at Picton stood 3 to 0 in favor of Picton, indicating the improvement that has taken place in the home team since that match.

At the request of the excursionists the Captain of the Nellie Cuthbert consented to hold the boat until six o'clock p.m. By this time darkness had set in and the steamer had to remain in the harbor until morning. Owing to the dense fog it was ten o'clock on Sunday morning before the Nellie Cuthbert steamed out of the river on the return trip. Mr. Geo. Waggett, of the Campbell House, very kindly accommodated the excursionists over night and sent them away happy by furnishing them with a hot breakfast in the morning. Mr. Waggett's inbred gallantry asserted itself as he could not be persuaded upon to accept any remuneration from the lady excursionists.

The deciding match for the cup between the senior teams of the Picton High School and the Napanee Collegiate Institute will be played off at Deseronto on Saturday. A hotly contested game may be looked forward to and as many as can find it convenient should accompany the boys.

Mr. Root, of Picton, made a very acceptable referee. Messrs. Unger and Corby acted as goal umpires, and Watson and Hayes as touch line judges.

Williams' band wagon and Anderson's band wagon will leave their respective stables on Saturday at 12:30 p.m. to witness the final foot ball match between Picton and Napanee. Fare 25c. Game starts at 2 p.m.

churchwardens and a member of the choir. Athletics, music, and amateur theatricals had in Mr. Pepler a warm admirer and liberal devotee."

Mr. E. H. Baines, the retiring manager, who is being removed to Toronto, was deservedly esteemed and popular in town. As soon as it was learned that Mr. Baines was to be transferred a petition was circulated in town, and received numerous signatures, asking that he be retained here as manager. Much regret is expressed at his removal, which will be a distinct loss to the social and business life of the place. Messrs. Ponton, Durand and Green have all received their discharge from the bank.

THE CROWN ATTORNEY'S POSITION.

The Montreal Herald, acting on the assumption that the County Crown Attorney had charge of the case against W. H. Ponton, gave that official a rare old wagging. The Crown Attorney directed the following letter to the Herald setting forth his connection with the case and the communication appeared in Tuesday's issue of that journal:

(To the Editor of The Herald, Montreal, Que.)

My Dear Sir:—It is not my custom to enter newspaper controversy in defence of any official action of mine, but an article in the editorial columns of your paper of the 20th demands not an explanation but a contradiction on my part, and a suggestion that your editor should be certain of facts before criticising so harshly a public officer.

The prosecution of Mr. Ponton was a private one, as I believe at the instance of the Dominion Bank, and was conducted by the local solicitors of the bank. I was never consulted about the matter by either the bank solicitors or the detectives either before or after the arrest, and I never met the detectives officially or otherwise until the progress of the trial. I had absolutely no conduct of the case nor was I consulted about it by either the solicitors or the detectives from start to finish. As is possible under our laws and as it is in many instances the custom, the private prosecutors had their own counsel who conducted the case without asking any assistance from me.

Now as to my official connection with the case:—Upon the day before the trial started the Police Magistrate asked me if I had anything to do with the prosecution, to which I replied that I had not. He then asked me to attend the hearing, listen carefully to the evidence produced, and be in a position to advise him upon any points concerning which he might wish my opinion. This I did. The prosecution was at the instance of a large and responsible corporation conducted by its own solicitors, and while, during the progress of the trial, it may have been felt that very trifling evidence was being pro-control of the case as the prosecutors might then say that they had not been allowed an opportunity to present their case. Every opportunity was allowed them. The magistrate, although receiving no pay therefore, listened patiently without interruption for seven days and then finding no evidence sufficient to commit had been produced, dismissed the charge.

The Dominion Bank, as was expected, will fight W. H. Ponton's suit for damages. Mr. Porter, Ponton's lawyer, received a letter this week from the bank acknowledging his demand and informing him that Messrs. Deroche & Madden, of Napanee, would conduct the defence.

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—"The Pinkerton men have not given up the chase by any means. They were in the city last week, and there is another man working on the case. He was also in the city last week and had a conversation with a well-known young man about town.

The bank's offer of $12,000 reward for the apprehension of the burglars and the stolen money is a pretty sure indication that the management has no intention of discontinuing the chase. All honest people hope that their efforts will lead to the speedy detection and punishment of the robbers.

Miss Bradshaw has been cured by it twice, and as many as fifty families at L'Amble used it last winter and were cured: One teaspoonful cayenne pepper, one teaspoonful salt, one tablespoonful of vinegar, put in one pint of boiling water and sweeten well with honey or granulated sugar. Gargle throat with a tablespoonful whenever pain is very severe.—Picton Gazette.

Orange and Green.

Francis Lyons and John Keyhoe, Napanee Mills, were before Police Magistrate Daly on Saturday charged with disturbing an Orange entertainment. The defendants are Roman Catholics and took umbrage at some remarks made by Mr. Chas. Riley in his address. Owing to the peculiar circumstances surrounding the case the Magistrate let the boys off upon payment of the costs in the action, which amounted to $14.25. H. M. Deroche, Q. C., appeared for the defendants.

Too Personal by Half.

We are in receipt of a communication from J. W. Edwards in answer to Mr. N. A. Asselstine's challenge in a recent issue of THE EXPRESS. As we understand it the controversy arose out of a communication which Mr. Edwards caused to be inserted in the Napanee Star. After the wordy war had progressed for some time the Star denied Mr. Asselstine the right to reply, and we published the communication in question, believing that each having had their turn, the matter would be allowed to drop. If it was a question of public interest we would be quite agreeable to allow both the gentlemen as much space as they desired, but we do not see our way clear to open our columns for the ventilation of a quarrel between two individuals that cannot prove of interest to our readers. If we did so, we fear the controversy would not end until either one, or possibly both of the contestants had been gathered to their fathers. The gentlemen should get together and settle their grievance in some other manner. In the meantime an academical essay on the amenities of school teachers would be in order.

An Operator's Downfall.

Dan McDonald, an ex-telegraph operator and a tramp passed along the street to day, while the reporter was talking to a citizen. Dan looked very shabby, and the citizen remarked: "There goes a man who was the fastest telegraph operator in this district, and wore very stylish clothes in his palmy days. The last position he had was at Napanee. During business hours he became intoxicated and had to be discharged. He has been an outcast from society ever since."—Kingston News.

Quinte Medical Association.

On Wednesday afternoon and evening the semi-annual meeting of the above association was held in the council chamber and was well attended by members of the profession from as far west as Frankford and as far east as Odessa, the limits of the district. After the meeting was called to order by the president, Dr. Gibson, of Belleville, Mayor Ward, in a neat speech, on behalf of the council, welcomed the Association to Napanee, and Dr. Leonard, on behalf of the profession in Napanee, cordially performed the same function. Some business matters were attended to, such as enlarging the borders of the district beyond the limits of the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, and Lennox, so as to take in registered members of the profession from adjoining districts; fixing the place of the May meeting for Belleville provisionally; recording volunteers for papers at the next meeting and providing for the framing of a constitution and by-laws. The principal part of the time was taken up with reading and discussing papers. The papers read by Drs. Simmons and Alger, of Frankford, and Ward, of Napanee, were conspicuous by reason of the spirited discussions they provoked. At the evening session Dr. Ward exhibited a patient with cerebral tumor, and outlined history and treatment of the case. After the scientific part of the programme had been vigorously kept up till about 10 o'clock all present were invited to a complimentary supper at the Paisley House, provided by the local medicos, and the social part of the programme ran smoothly through a choice menu which proprietor Douglas had prepared in his usual excellent style. The printed menu was curiously worded but notwithstanding strange names and apt and humorous quotations the edibles were pleasantly removed by forks and spoons, and the very suitable toast list drew out eloquent speeches from nearly all present. The chairs were ably filled by Drs. Leonard and Ward, and some of the lady physicians sat with their male confreres till AULD LANG SYNE was sung at about 1.30 a.m. and the profitable and pleasant meeting was at an end.

The report that the bar rooms in Napanee are sealed up on Saturday night and that the seals are broken by the license inspector on Monday morning is a little wide of the mark, but drinking during prohibited hours has been pulled up with a short string. The other hotels have also decided to preserve the law and strangers in search of a Sunday tonic will now head the other way.
